Petition Asks For Bond Issue Build 100 Miles Roads

A petition was presented Monday to the Commissioners' Court for a road bond election to build 100 miles of farm-to-market roads in Randall county.

The project has been under consideration by the Randall County Farm Bureau for several month. After careful study of the proposal it was decided that it would take approximately 100 miles of hard surfaced roads to fill the needs of the farmers of Randall county.

Members of the road committee of the Farm Bureau have spent many hours making a study of the plan. The project started as a 3-way proposition, including the airport in Canyon and community houses in South Amarillo and Canyon. When so much oppositions developed to the two latter projects, the Farm Bureau decided that the road project was of such importance to the development of Randall county that it should be presented to the voters, without the other two projects.

The election calls for issuance of $750,000 in county bonds and will be held on Sept. 27.

The proposed plan will connect present highways in Randall county so that farmers in all sections of the county will receive benefits from the system of farm-to-market roads. A map is being prepared showing the roads which have been selected by the road committee of the Farm Bureau as the proper ones for paving. This map will be published in the Canyon News before election.

Test Hole East Of Canyon Has Been Abandoned

The test well on the Hugh Currie ranch northeast of Canyon has been abandoned at 6150 feet.

It is reported that the hole was not plugged, which leads to the conclusion that the drilling company hopes to move a larger outfit to the site for a deeper hole at some future date.

Gas was hit at about 4,000 feet and further speculation centers about the development of the gas sands at that depth.

Mexican Draws Five Years On the Foster Death

Firdman Watts of Amarillo drew a five-year suspended sentence in district court Tuesday when the jury found him guilty without malice for the death of Paul E. Foster of Hereford, grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Foster of Canyon.

The case opened Monday and after hearing a large number of witnesses went to jury in the middle of the afternoon. A verdict was reached at 6:30.

Watts was charged with having driven to Umbarger, taking a soldier who was returning to the Roswell Army field. The soldier testified that Watts had been drinking.

Watts took the stand and denied that he was intoxicated, but had been under medical treatment after his discharge from the service.

George Martin received a two year sentence in the penitentiary under the charge of attempted robbery at the Taylor & Son store. Martin and Ray McFarland were surprised by Wilford Taylor, Jr., who fired a shotgun at Martin as he failed to stop. Martin lost his arm. McFarland was given a two year sentence several months ago. Both were from Portales.

President Hill Appeals For Vote On Amendment

President J. A. Hill addressed the Hereford Rotary Club Friday on the constitutional amendment which will be voted upon by the people of Texas on Saturday, August 23. The amendment calls for setting aside 5 cents of the confederate pension tax for the use of 14 colleges of Texas in erecting new buildings. At the same time, the 35 cent general fund limit will be reduced to 30 cents, thus the taxpayers will not have to pay a larger maximum tax than at present. The amendment provides that the University of Texas and A. & M. College are granted authority to issue bonds against their permanent fund for needed buildings. These institutions cannot participate in tax money for buildings.

Dr. Hill believes that on Aug. 23 the people of Texas will take a long step forward in education, or will condemn Texas to a position of mediocracy so far as her educational system is concerned.

The colleges are crowded with youth seeking an education. No college in Texas has sufficient buildings. The future of Democracy depends upon the education of the people. While Texas has established many colleges, it has been niggardly in the support of these institutions.

So far as West Texas State is concerned, the college has received only $9,000 per year during the past 20 years. The science building is the only one paid for by the state during that period. Buildings have been erected during that period, but they have been paid for from fees paid by the students.

This is the first time that all educational institutions of Texas have gotten together on a unified program. Every president; every board of regents; every faculty of the state supported institutions; every ex-student organization in the state, all have approved the present plan.

The constitution provides a 7 cent levy for Confederate pension, but only 2 cents of this fund is being collected and there is a huge surplus. There are only 1300 Confederate dependents on the polls.

By diverting 5 cents of this fund to the college building fund, about $45,000,000 will be raised every five years. The University and A. & M. College cannot receive a cent from this fund, therefore the fund will be divided among the 14 other colleges. The sum will not be adequate for present needs, but is far greater than any institution has received in the past.

The division of the fund is based upon the average attendance of each institution during the five year period prior to the war. This division was approved by each of the state colleges. In 1958 there will be a re-allocation based upon the last five years of the period; and again in 1968 the distribution will be re-allocated.

President Hill stated that some critics state that the fund will not meet the needs of the schools. This is true, but it is better than the colleges have been receiving. "We are faced with the crisis, and call upon the people of Texas to help us now—not at some future date," stated Dr. Hill.

If the constitutional amendment is approved, it will be possible for West Texas State to float bonds on January 1, 1948 to begin the construction of needed buildings.

Dr. Hill points to the urgent need of a library building. The library has run over into the corridor and into needed classrooms.

Everyone in the Panhandle knows the need of a gymnasium and a well rounded physical education program. This constitutional amendment will mean that these will be secured.

Some VFW officials advocate that the confederate fund be held in tact for future use of other war veterans. The federal government is doing more for veterans than any other nation has ever done. There is no danger of a changed attitude. Veterans want to go to college, and should be given this opportunity now.

Those from Canyon who attended the Hereford meeting were: Dr. Hill, Dr. S. H. Condron, Gus Miller, Clark Jarnagin, Rev. Hubert Thomson and Clyde Warwick.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Woods and son, Dub, and daughter, Mrs. Gene Baker and baby, Gene, of Pittsburg, Calif., are in Canyon this week for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Simms, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mickle and other relatives and friends.

The green light for physical development of the plants of state-supported colleges can be given by the voters of Texas Aug. 23 when they go to the polls in a special election to vote for the proposed amendment to the state constitution. This proposed change would provide a 60-million-dollar fund for the 16 schools to erect needed buildings in the next 30 years.

Endorsed unanimously by the presidents and regents of all the institutions involved, the amendment will enable administrators to plan their building programs with some certitude. For nearly 20 years the Legislature has been unable to allocate to the colleges moneys necessary to enlarge their plants. The recent influx of veteran students has further crowded already heavily taxed facilities.

The amendment will give the colleges immediate relief as it is self-enacting and need no further action by the Legislature to put it into operation after the people approve it.

Briefly, the amendment will take an unused 5-cent portion of the presently authorized 7-cent Confederate pension advalorem tax and assign the revenue from it to 14 schools other than the University of Texas and Texas A. &M. College, for a 30-year building program. The revenue would be apportioned on the basis of enrollment.

West Texas State College, which would receive about two and a half million dollars, would be empowered to build its first classroom building since the 20's. Urgently needed on the campus now is a library building to relieve cramped and inadequate housing for this important department of the school.

West Texas administrators point out that in the past 25 years all 16 of the colleges together have received from the Legislature appropriations amounting to only $5,900,000 for building purposes. The passage of the amendment would remedy this situation.

No new taxes are involved and the maximum property tax for the general fund would be reduced from 35 cents to 30 cents.

The revenue for the colleges would come from a surplus within the allocation for Confederate pension purposes and would have no actual effect on the Confederate fund, which now has a surplus.

Prominent citizens from all over the state, including Gov. Beauford Jester and the Texas League of Women Voters, support and endorse the amendment.

During the final days before the special election on next Saturday a frantic effort is being made by two groups of Texas citizens to defeat the College Building Constitutional Amendment.

One group hopes that the people will be deceived and will continue piling up a surplus in the Confederate Pension Fund so that World War veterans MIGHT profit by this big surplus. This is absolutely impossible, as the State of Texas is not going to start a series of bonus payments which could run to $100,000,000.00 or more. Our federal government is doing everything within reason for the benefit of our honored war veterans, and the people of America approve this expenditure of public funds.

Another group is opposing the amendment for another selfish reason. This move centers around Lubbock where a few ex-students of Texas Tech think that because Texas Tech is the third largest college in Texas that this college can get more money by direct appropriation than by this very wise constitutional amendment. They appeal to friends of West Texas State and Sul Ross College to help defeat this amendment. Their appeal is selfish, because they will forget about the interests of Canyon and Alpine, and will work only for Texas Tech, should the amendment be defeated. The administration of Texas Tech is not fooled. The president, faculty and board of regents of Texas Tech are supporting the amendment.

This amendment offers the only chance that the colleges of Texas will have to secure new buildings.

It is not going to cost the taxpayers more money, simply because the general fund will be reduced 5 cents on the $100 valuation at the same time that a 5 cent levy is set aside for college buildings.

Other states have such a plan for giving their state colleges a fixed sum of money for buildings. Why should the colleges of Texas be penalized?

Why should the voters listen to irresponsible persons who are spreading propaganda for selfish reasons?

Go to the polls on August 23 and VOTE FOR THE COLLEGE BUILDING CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT!

Study Will Be Made of Wheat Pasture Poison

A joint study of the causes of wheat poisoning among cattle in the Panhandle will be made by Texas Tech College and A. & M. College.

Announcement was made Thursday that a contract for the use of 8,000 acres of the former Pantex Ordnance plant northeast of Amarillo had been made between the War Assets Administration and the two colleges.

Panhandle stockmen will furnish livestock to graze wheat pastures on the tract in order that a scientific study may be made in order to determine the sources of poisoning. Thousands of head of cattle have been lost in years past from poison of wheat pasturing and so far no cause has been found for the poison.

Four Men Laying Out Fines Drink Vanilla Extract

Four men are in jail laying out a fine or $100 each, which was imposed by Judge B. F. Machen in Justice court. The men were convicted of being intoxicated by drinking vanilla extract.

Sheriff M. E. Cantrell found 42 empty extract bottles in a trash can at the court house Wednesday. He laid in wait for the offenders Wednesday night and picked up two men who were drinking vanilla extract. The men were arrested and tried Thursday. Two more were arrested and tried Friday.

Mr. Cantrell called upon all firms in Canyon which handle vanilla extract and advised that it was a $300 fine to sell extract to any person whom they knew to be habitual users of extract. He pointed out that two firms in Hereford had paid fines of $300 each for selling to habitual drunkards and that another firm was faced with a fine.

A number of local men are known to be drinking vanilla extract, and all firms were warned about the penality of the law.

Each person who drinks the extract is subject to a $100 fine and the Sheriff's department is watching those who have been known to use the stuff.

JUST RAMBLING

First of all, the Newsman must do a little bragging, before telling of our vacation trip to California. We carried a rabbit's foot, taken from a West Texas jackrabbit on a moonless night in the cemetery by a cross-eyed negro. The old rabbit's paw was sure working on this trip.

On the way home, we left Long Beach on a Friday morning, after the temperature had been running to dizzy heights, with a light rain falling; this rain and cloudy weather continued east over the desert, and rain fell all of the way to Albuquerque.

The desert, the headache of all tourists which had had a temperature of 110 degrees only two days previous, was a mild 85, with water standing on the roadside, and clouds hiding the sun.

Arizona has been dry all summer. But rain was falling, and a near flood hit us at Flagstaff. Albuquerque was dry, but cool. However, by the time we hit Tucumcari the sun was really pouring down, and for the first time on the return trip the temperature hovered near 100 and the drivers ran for ice to carry in the car.

And this, we proclaim, is some record drive.

On the way out, we took a chance by going down through the heart of West Texas to Big Spring and then to El Paso. The heat did not bother the Mrs. and the Newsman, as we conceived the idea several years ago of carrying a 25 pound cake of ice under the ventilator of the car, and a bucket with 10 pounds of ice between the riders in the front seat. We have talked with a lot of folks who have suffered because of these new fangled car coolers, but the old fashioned ice treatment really works.

Try it, if your are in doubt.

At El Paso we ran across Adrian Pool, an old legislative friend, who later became a member of the Board of Control and visited Canyon. He knows all sections of Texas, and discusses politics of every section. He loves politics and plays the game like the veteran he is. He asked about many Canyon friends.

At Las Cruces we looked up cousin whom we had not seen in about 40 years. And during the course of the conversation we found that another cousin lives at Tucson, where we spent the night and enjoyed another brief visit. On the way home we visited with another cousin, whom we had not had the pleasure of seeing much during years past.

Visiting kinfolks is a pleasant thing when you are not pushed for time. Which reminds us that in past trips we have always driven to California in two days. This time, being as how the years have rolled around much too fast and we are becoming less inclined to rush around so fast, we took four days to drive each way. We enjoyed the leisure of the trip, and saw much more of the country. When the roads were good, and there was little to see, we stepped on the gas, and whizzed through the country. But when the view was pleasant to the eye, we just rolled along as if we owned the place.

We see where there have been many highway accidents by late drivers. This time we quit early, and are back to enjoy life in Canyon once more. We are convinced that many of the highway accidents are due to persons rushing through the country at breakneck speed, and doing a good job breaking their own necks as well as those of others.

California does not know that the war is over. That is, judging from the prices being charged for every commodity which you price. The only reasonable prices are Motel accomodations in places which have overbuilt and there is a fight for business. Hotel rooms are not to be had, as there are always persons seeking refuge from the summer's heat who have the money to pay for rooms during the summer season.

Motels are the go. And naturally this increases travel, and all kinds of business. The new, attractive Motels sell out early in the afternoon. The less desirable places will either have to remodel or find themselves out of business before many more seasons. These places are being built in large numbers around every town and city.

When we first visited California years ago prices were low, especially food. Fruit was available at low prices. Today fruit costs as much in California as in Canyon. Most other food items are out of sight.

California was overrun during the war by service men. Today the state is overrun with tourists. Most of them have money to spend because they have been deprived of travel for such a long time. They pay what is asked, whether cheerfully or not.

We did not see so many elderly persons who showed that they had little upon which to live. These have been surplanted by middle west farmers who have made a pile of money during the war. They are not spending huge quantities, but they live much more comfortably than the tourists of a few years ago. They are really out to have a good time, and to enjoy life. For that reason, California is highly prosperous.

But California is headed for a headache. We heard an Army chaplain talk at a Rotary Club. He told of ex-servicemen, who had trained in California, liked the climate, and were now coming back to make their homes. The chaplain stated that unemployment faced the state. The housing situation is made more critical by the influx of these people.

Everything is unionized to such an extent that employers have had to raise prices in order to stay in business. The bubble will burst in the face of the state before the citizens realize it.

The automobile black market continues to thrive in every city. We drove down an avenue with secondhand car lots on both sides for about 2 miles. You could find every make of car offered there, all of them brand new.

The manager of the Ford assembling plant sat at our table at another Rotary meeting. He stated that Ford could run for one year on the backlog of signed orders. He predicted that black market operations in cars would continue for 18 months or two years. Those who got into the game early will make enough money so they will not get hurt by the depression of car prices.

Throughout the trip we saw army and navy installations which were going to wreck, and thousands of aircraft which were rotting away. It is a pretty tough sight to see the money which Americans have dug up going to waste in such a manner. We wondered why in the world there could not be some sort of salvage from the thousands of acres of trucks, tanks, guns, ammunition, planes and ships which were being pulled into the dock.

Naturally we would prefer seeing this waste to the slaughter of men which would have resulted by continuation of the war. But if we have another war looking around the corner, why aren't we smart enough to preserve this material and salvage that which should be useful?

Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California were truly the great training fields for our armed forces. The ideal climate and wide open places made these states the great training territory of the nation.

California was greatly interested in the Senate investigation of the 40 million dollar Hughes contract. The waste of the project meant little to the people who have lived in the atmosphere of war waste.

Personally, we are not prone to criticise the Roosevelt adminstration nearly so much as the people generally do, although we deploy the waste which accompanied this particular enterprise..

America was unprepared when the war hit. Hitler was pushing all opponents out of Europe. The subs were sinking our ships by the wholesale. Howard Hughes was recognized as a plane builder. He was no novice. He had an idea, and took it to President Roosevelt. The president was not in the habit of waiting in the face of emergency. His policy was action, regardless of cost. On the face of what was happening in Europe, the 40 million dollars looked like peanuts to a free spender of the Roosevelt type, especially when the plane builder thought he had something to whip the subs. Someone pulled a boner in allowing the waste to continue after the war ended, and the big plane not completed.

While in California we read a signed statement from an editor of nationwide fame who stated that the plane would never fly. Howard Hughes thought he had something new to offer. Maybe he did, maybe the engineer was wrong. The public will never know. The big ship is now covered up, and will rot away like thousands and thousands of other war machines.

Neither do we criticise Hughes or Elliott Roosevelt for the part they played in the Meyer episode. Every big industrialist seemed to think that he should employ a publicity, or contact man. The fact that Hughes was unfornuate in his choice, and the fact that Elliott Roosevelt was duped into accepting the free gifts and entertainment from the hands of the Hughes agent has nothing to do with the case.

The whole thing was a mistake of the war, just like thousands of other war mistakes.

Long Beach is one of the wealthiest cities in the nation, owning 257 producing oil wells.

The constitution of the United States recognizes that states own water three miles from the recognized shoreline.

From the time the constitution was written until a few years ago the Supreme Court recognized the ownership of states to coastal waters.

Decision after decision by the Supreme Court has favored the state's ownership of these lands.

It seems queer now that the so-called New Deal Supreme Court should reverse the spirit of the constitution of the United States and all previous Supreme Court decisions in declaring that these lands belong to the federal government and not to the states.

We heard the city attorney of Long Beach discuss the decision. He has worked on the case for eight long years. While the decision is usually referred to as the California case, it affects Texas and every coastal state in the union. Not only that, but it affects states bordering on the Great Lakes. If the decision stands as now written there is no telling what may happen to the improvements along every water front in these United States.

Governor Jester is fully aware of the impact of this decision on Texas. He is campaigning among the states, pointing out what will happen to coastal improvements unless the states unite in a decided fight to hold the spirit of the constitution.

This is just another line in the well laid plans of Washington to steal the rights of the states and transfer all governmental powers to Washington. We have long wondered why the federal government cannot be as honest with American citizens as it demands that the citizens be to the government. Why?

The big job at hand in Texas comes next Saturday. Are you ready to go to the polls and vote for the interest of the colleges of Texas?

Until recent years the citizens of Texas have opposed the adoption of constitutional amendments. For the past decade citizens of Texas have favored most of the proposed amendments.

The proposal to use 5 cents of the confederate pension fund for college buildings is the only solution at hand. There might be a better plan, but we doubt it.

Down at Lubbock a bunch of exes of Texas Tech are campaigning against the amendment on the grounds that Tech is not getting all of the money which the exes think the college should get. True enough, none of the colleges will get all of the money they need right now.

Tech exes are trying to fool the voters by saying that the University and A. & M. will get more money. Facts are that these institutions will be allowed to borrow from their permanent fund, but that is all. They will not participate in the proceeds of the 5 cent tax levy. Those exes are of the opinion that Tech should have a share of the University oil money. All colleges would like to dip into this fund, but none of them will ever get one single penny, so why cry about the impossible.

The legislature has been stingy in allowing money for college buildings. Under the amendment, every college in Texas will receive more building funds under the terms of the amendment than they have received at the hands of the legislature. So why kick out a sure thing for an imaginary handout?

We hope that every Randall county citizen will go to the polls Saturday and vote in favor of the amendment.

Clue Unearthed To 'Lost Colony'

U. S. Archeologists Find Traces of an Old Fort; Mystery Revealed.

WASHINGTON. — Excavating on Roanoke island, government archeologists claim to have found evidence of an ancient fort which may have housed the ill-starred "Lost Colony" of North Carolina.

They also found a charcoal pit which, they said, may have been prepared as one of the last acts of the colonists before they disappeared.

The excavation is under way at the Fort Raleigh national historic site, not far from Kitty Hawk, N. C., where the Wright brothers gave aviation its start.

Fort of Great Age.

J. C. Harrington, national park service archeologist, who is directing the work, said that three exploratory trenches have disclosed the profile of a ditch or moat, 10 feet wide and 5½ feet deep which has been filled in by erosion, of a fort parapet.

"The depth and character of the fill indicate that the fort is of great age, in contrast to the remains of Civil war forts of earthen construction elsewhere on Roanoke island," Harrington said.

"Near the bottom of the moat, in one of the trenches, a large fragment of hand-made brick and a large piece of strap iron were found, bringing to mind the fact that when Gov. John White of the 'Lost Colony' returned to the front in 1591 and found that the colonists had disappeared, he discovered iron and other heavy objects strewn about in great profusion."

Victims of Indians.

In furtherance of charter rights from Queen Elizabeth to Sir Walter Raleigh, Sir Richard Grenville established a colony of 108 persons on the island in 1585. The group returned to England with Sir Francis Drake in 1586. Members of a second party of 15, left at Roanoke island the same year, apparently were killed by the Indians.

John White's colony arrived in 1857, and in August of that year Virginia Dare was born, the first white native of the new world. White went to England for supplies. When he returned, all of the colonists had disappeared.

As late as 1602, Raleigh was seeking the missing group. Neither he nor the later settlers of Jamestown, Va., were able to find traces of them.

Ruins of the Roanoke island fort were described in 1709, and in 1895 they were still faintly visible.

Nation's Automobiles Are Doing Well, Says Report

WASHINGTON.—The nation's automobiles, most of them prewar models, seem to get better with age.

American Automobile association reports there were fewer automobile breakdowns in 1946 than in the record year of 1945.

The AAA said increased supplies of tires and spare parts enable motorists to keep their cars in much better repair.

An estimate based on reports from 14,000 AAA member garages showed a drop in 1946 of more than 10 per cent in the number of mechanical breakdowns below 1945.

Tire trouble, as usual, was the No. 1 cause for emergency calls. Next in line was battery trouble, then ignition failures and bad carburetors.

And drivers are still absentminded. The report showed that 779,000 drivers ran out of gas, and 372,000 either lost their keys or locked themselves out.

Scientist Plans to Revisit Town of Stone Age People

CHICAGO.—An American village site that is believed to be older than Budapest, Hungary, will be revisited by Dr. Paul S. Martin, chief curator of anthropology for the Chicago natural history museum.

The site is known as SU village. Studies made there so far have revealed traces of a simple stone-age people whose civilization has been given the name Mogollon.

Dr. Martin's considered guess is that the village was occupied about 500 A. D.

Tree-rings (in roof beams) are being examined in efforts to establish a date.

He and his associates will seek other sites which may throw light on the origin of the Mogollon culture.

Ghost Town in California To Be Made a State Park

COLUMBIA, CALIF. — Believed to be the first brick public schoolhouse in California, a red brick structure on top of Burial Hill in this ghost mining town has been bought by the Columbia Historic Park association.

Built in 1861, the schoolhouse will be the cornerstone upon which the boundaries of Columbia state park will be based. It will be restored and preserved as a monument to California's early-day school system.

This purchase was part of a campaign to acquire all the well-preserved historic buildings in the old mining town, which is to be restored.

Ruth Price and Glynn Braden Vows Are Exchanged in Home Ceremony

Baskets of white gladioli, flanked by tall lighted tapers in branched candelabra, before the fireplace and reflected in a large mirror, formed an artistic setting for the wedding of Ruth Price, daughter of Mrs. Elzie Price of this city, and Glynn Braden, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Braden of Sherman.

Lyle Bonner, minister of the Church of Christ, read the double ring ceremony Sunday afternoon, August 17, at 4 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cox.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Ellen Sanders, pianist, played, "Ave Maria", Schubert, and Glen Dowlen, Jr., sang, "At Dawning", Cadman, and "Because", by D'Hardelot. "Bridal Chorus" from Wagner's, "Lohengrin" was the processional, the "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn was used as the recessional, and "Clair de Lune", Debussy, provided a musical background for the exchange of vows.

Mrs. Virgil Kelly attended the bride as matron of honor, with Frances Harp as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. B. Raymond Evans and Peggy Head. All attendants were attired in formal frocks of white lace and satin. They carried arm bouquets of blue asters tied with blue satin streamers.

Her finger-tip length veil with scalloped edge, fell from a halo of seed pearls, and she carried a bridal bouquet of gardenias and white asters.

Mrs. Price, mother of the bride, wore a dress of black crepe with a pink carnation corsage. Her hat was also of black with pink flower trim.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for members of the bridal party, relatives and guests. The bride's chosen colors of blue and white were repeated in room and table decorations.

The couple will be at home in Canyon at 2103 Second Avenue, after a wedding trip to points in New Mexico. For traveling, the bride wore a gray suit with accessories of green snakeskin.

Mrs. Braden was graduated from Canyon High School, and has attended West Texas State College for two years. She is a member of Epsilon Sigma Alpha National Sorority and Delta Zeta Chi, Social Sorority.

Enrollment in Veterans School To Start Friday

All veterans who are engaged in farming and are interested in on-the-farm taining are urged to attend a meeting in the courthouse Friday, August 22 at 8 p. m., according to an announcement made this week by Ted T. Kelley of Munday who has been named by the Randall County School Board as coordinator of this program.

It is expected that enrollment of the first class in the Randall County vocational school will be accomplished at this time.

This type of school is new to Randall County, but it is a public institution of vocational training, not a privately sponsored enterprise. All profits above operating costs are to be spent in supplying facilities and equipment for better training of the men enrolled. It has been administered as a veterans training program to allow these veterans to receive vocational training while holding down their regular jobs, Mr. Kelley stated.

A preference is made to any veteran who is receiving a disability compensation and they are particularly invited to attend this meeting. Subsistence will be allowed for this type of training by the Veterans Administration.

Here's a story about a reporter who saw on the police blotter that a farmer had lost 2025 pigs. The size of the loss seemed very heavy for such a small farm so the reporter drove out to investigate.

"Is it true that you lost 2025 pigs?" he asked.

"Yeth," lisped the farmer.

The wise reporter made a note on his copy paper, "Lost, 2 sows and 25 pigs."

One of the first things a new telephone operator learns is to be always ready for the next call—your call—anybody's call!

Operators have a lot of calls to handle nowadays. There are more telephones in use than ever before and calling is at an all-time high. The switchboard at times is literally ablaze with lights—each one calling for "Number, please?" and each one getting a "Number, please?" as quickly as skilled and courteous operators can manage. If your call is not answered at once, you'll know that nimble fingers will reach it as soon as they possibly can.

As soon as much-needed new equipment can be obtained and installed, we'll be ready to handle your calls quicker and better than ever before.

Ancient Temple Is Unearthed in Egypt

Believed to Have Been Built In Honor of God Horus.

CAIRO.—Prof. Charles Montet of University of Strasbourg and chief of the archeological mission at Tanis in the Egyptian delta, is reported to have found the remains of yet another ancient temple.

Unearthing of the remains was completely unexpected, according to the report issued by the Egyptian government department of antiquities under whose auspices Montet is working the Tanis excavations.

The temple is believed to have been built in honor of the god Horus. It is 187 feet long and 141 wide, but vandals during the centuries have ransacked and destroyed what might have been priceless objects. Roofs, walls and columns have disappeared.

Under the cornerstone, small plates of gold, silver, bronze and semi-precious stones were found. Two of those hoards were found completely intact as they had been left 3,000 or more years ago, while there was evidence of three more hoards.

Montet and his staff scrutinized every object, every scrap in the remains in the hope of finding a clue leading to discovery of the date of the temple and by whom it was built. They searched in vain, and unless the land yields further secrets, the mystery will remain.

Montet has been working on the Tanis area for 15 years. He started in 1929 with a theory that somewhere in the Nile delta near Lake Menzaleh there should be the remains of a great ancient Egyptian civilization. It was only in 1939 that he finally discovered the first signs that were to prove him right.

With the war further investigation had to stop, but he was back again in 1944 and yearly he has produced new and priceless discoveries from the extensive area he is digging.

Stoves Spouting Water Make Housewives Gasp

DERBY, CONN. — Startled housewives rubbed their eyes disbelievingly and thought they were seeing things.

They felt better later when officials explained that a heavy road building machine had mashed two pipes together.

That's why, water was spouting from gas stoves.

Bogus Danish Lieutenant Really Is a Jobless Girl

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK. — The average woman's suppressed desire to boss a regiment was gratified for a 22-year-old Danish housemaid.

She turned up suddenly at the Holback garrison, near Copenhagen, in the uniform of a lieutenant, but with skirts instead of trousers.

The "lieutenant" began her career with a rigid inspection of the soldiers' meals, the kitchens and the food storerooms, keeping the soldiers jumping with her sharp commands.

Her army service came to an end when a captain summoned police who arrested the girl. She confessed she was out of work and decided to fulfill her desire by the impersonation, purchasing a uniform in a Copenhagen store.

After Age 35, Gnaw Meat to Save Teeth, Doctor Advises

BOSTON.—If you're over 35 and you want to save your teeth, throw away your knives and forks.

That's the advice of Dr. Charles H. M. Williams of University of Toronto, who believes that tearing into meats with your teeth is much better than cutting the edibles into dainty bits before chewing them.

Once the average adult has passed the 35-year milestone, he is in as much danger of losing teeth from infections and gum diseases as through decay and accidents, Dr. Williams told the Massachusetts Dental society.

The only thing most people use their front teeth for now, he said, is smiling and biting into apples—and that's a mistake.

Table manners and soft diet work a lot of havoc in American mouths, he added, and a little jaw exercise would do a lot of good.

Mother Views Body of Son, Dies Few Minutes Later

ATLANTA. — Mrs. Susan Alice McCorkle, 70, of Tampa, died a few minutes after viewing the body of her son and observing, "It's too much for me. I want to go with him."

Mrs. McCorkle was here for the funeral of Dr. Robert L. McCorkle, who was electrocuted in an auto accident near Gaffney, S. C. Dr. McCorkle survived the crash of his car into a pole. He was killed when he sought to re-enter the car. A 733,000-volt power line had been dropped upon it by the impact.

Proud of His 1911 Auto, Speeder Pays Fine Gladly

BOISE, IDAHO.—John Bringham has happily paid his $10 fine for speeding. He said he just didn't think the old buggy had it in her.

He was arrested for driving his 1911 Peerless 40 miles an hour in a 30-mile zone.

A Two-Year Plan for Bulgaria calls for a 40 per cent increase in domestic coal production next year. The Government's plan, if successful, would step up power production by 19 per cent in 1947 and 50 per cent in 1948. In two years, railway traffic is scheduled to grow by 34 per cent, freight transport by 89 per cent and water transport by 130 per cent. More than 100,000 new workers will be needed for the plan.

SHORT SHORT STORY

Good Business

By M. J. COLLINS

UNCLE JOE came stamping into the kitchen making about as much noise as a small herd of cattle.

"Here! You be careful!" Aunt Martha warned, waving a large mixing spoon threateningly. "I have bread settin'. And wipe your feet, don't you dare traipse in here from that dirty old barn yard."

"Gol darn it, woman, you put what I was goin' to say clean out of my head," he grumbled. "Oh, yes, now I remember—I think we should sell out and go live in town." There was a faraway look in his eyes and he thought of all the pleasures of retirement. Perhaps they'd buy a new car and do a little traveling.

"Huh! I'm not moving to town and leave our home just to suit a whim of yours. Just get the whole idea out of your head!" There was finality in her voice. "You go and clean up. Ralph and Jenny are coming over for supper. All your clothes are on the bed so don't ask me where they are when they're right under your nose."

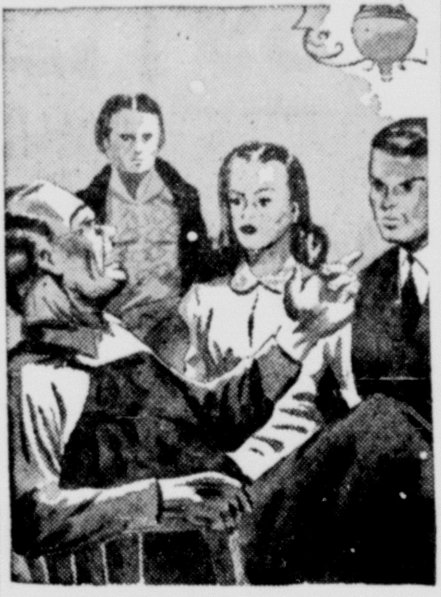
3-Minute Fiction

We didn't have the slightest inkling of what Uncle had suggested until supper was nearly over and then Aunt Martha asked:

"Do you know what your uncle wants to do?" and as she generally does, answered herself before we could even open our mouths. "Sell the farm and move to town."

"Oh, I think that's a good idea!" Jenny cried. "It'll be so much easier for you."

The first thing we knew, we were involved in a full scale battle, three against Aunt Martha, but she wasn't giving an inch. Not her! Finally she did admit that she didn't get her work done as spryly as before and from there on the battle was won.



We were involved in a full scale argument, three against Martha, but she wasn't giving an inch.

Uncle Joe was jubilant. It had been easier than he'd dreamed.

During the next few weeks several would-be buyers came to appraise the farm and finally one of them said he would buy it. Uncle Joe and Aunt Martha had been shopping around trying to find a house in town but getting one was a tougher proposition than they'd expected.

Eventually the sale was completed and the new owner bought the farm complete with stock and implements for ten thousand dollars. He told Uncle Joe they could have another additional two weeks to find a house and move.

Early next morning we were over at their place and into the job of packing up. About nine-thirty the new owner drove out and hailed Uncle Joe.

"I'VE been thinking it over, Mr. Quinn, and this place doesn't quite suit me. How would you like to buy it back at the same price?"

Uncle Joe sort of looked at him popeyed and we all crowded around. "Well, sir! I just don't know what to say," he mumbled, "the wife has sort of set her mind on movin' to town."

"Faith, and I haven't!" Aunt Martha swung her arms around excitedly. "You buy it back, Joe Quinn, if you know what's good for you."

"Well, let's go to town," there was no reluctance in Uncle Joe's voice, "and get the papers fixed up."

We went outside leaving Aunt Martha crying softly in Jenny's arms. I watched them drive away and Uncle Joe was grinning for all he was worth.

Later when we were driving home, Jenny said, "It was lucky the man wanted to sell it back. Neither one of them wanted to leave the farm."

"Lucky my eye!" I snorted. "It was just plain conniving on Uncle Joe's part. He made an agreement to pay the owner an extra thousand if he'd come out and say what he did. Don't say a word to Aunt Martha, he told me to keep it under my hat."

"Well, what do you know," Jenny laughed. "Uncle is still a bit of a gallant."

"An expensive one," I grumbled.

Jenny smiled to herself. There was no sense in telling him that Aunt Martha had already paid the new owner five hundred dollars to sell the farm back to her husband.

Flower Mart To Hold Big Formal Opening Sept. 1

About the first of September, Mr. and Mrs. Chris E. Wooten will have the formal opening of The Flower Mart, located at 406 15th Street.

They have just returned from three weeks' intensive training in the Bright School of Floral Design, internationally known training school in Chicago, Ill. From there they went to Dallas for a week to attend the State Floral Association.

The Flower Mart is 28x26 feet, housing the work room and display shelves and a black chromium refrigerator box which is to be set to form a section of the daily floral display. To the rear of this building is located the 28x34 greenhouse in which a variety of in season and out of season flowers will be grown.

Mr. Wooten is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wooten. He was graduated from Canyon High School in 1935 and from West Texas State College in 1939 with a B. S. degree in an Industrial Arts major. Following his graduation he worked in South and East Texas, where his natural love for flowers developed into an interest in working with them. His beginning work along that line was interrupted by three years' service in the Navy.

Mrs. Wooten is the former Mary Helen Stalls of White Deer and is well known to Canyon people, having been a popular student and citizen of Canyon during her four years attendance at West Texas State, where she graduated in 1940, receiving her degree with a major in art.

Rotary Club Heard Talks on College Amendment

Stuart Condron and Clyde Warwick talked at the luncheon of the Canyon Rotary Club Tuesday on the urgent need for the voters to support the constitutional amendment in the special election on next Saturday.

Dr. Condron deployed the small interest that the voters show in these special amendments. Only above 20% of the qualified voters will go to the polls in this election. Therefore, those who favor the amendment should go to the polls.

"The amendment will not cost the taxpayers an additional tax, simply because while the state sets aside 5 cents for the college building fund, it will reduce the general fund tax from 35c to 30c, pointed out Mr. Condron.

West Texas State has received only small appropriations for building during the past decade. If this amendment passes the college will receive nearly 2½ million dollars in the 30-year period, or about $800,000 for the coming ten years. This will enable the college to build an adequate library building, which is the major need of the college.

Warwick pointed out that certain exstudents of Texas Tech were trying to defeat the amendment on the ground that Tech can get more money by going to the legislature. He pointed out the fact that the President of Tech, all members of the board of regents and the exstudent organization, together with most of the faculty members were working for the amendment.

Former District Governor Harris M. Cook, accompanied by Mrs. Cook, attended the meeting.

Visitors were M. J. Newman of Canyon; Wayne Cook of Quanah; Ed Broome, Forrest Barnes and Arch Hunsley of Amarillo.

Tri-State Fair To Be Held Following Five Year Vacation

The parade composed of eight bands, cowgirls, commercial floats and fifty huge inflated rubber animals will thrill the hearts and capture the imagination of the young and old alike. Following the parade, the rubber animals will be on display at the Fair grounds for the week of the Fair.

The Bill Hames Shows will furnish the midway attractions. The Hames Shows is the largest train show in the state of Texas. Agricultural and livestock exhibits will play an important part in the 1947 Fair.

Poor Quality of Milling Wheat Is Threat To All Wheat Farmers in the Panhandle of Texas

Panhanlde wheat growers are taking a beating on the low quality of wheat which is being produced. The Canyon News has carried several articles on this subject. Randall county is listed as having 85 per cent wheat acceptable for milling, with 15 per cent undesirable.

David Rasco of the Amarillo Daily News reviewed the whole situation of wheat in Friday's issue as follows:

Panhandle wheat producers—now completing their greatest crop in history—are finding they have built an agricultural house on the sand.

Terminal market mill buyers are penalizing incoming loads from the Texas region because of the high percentage of poor milling quality varieties of wheat. In some cases, as much as 16½ cents per bushel penalty has been assessed below regular market quotations.

In a few instances, buyers have refused to bid on Panhandle wheat because of extremely low milling quality.

These are the disturbing reports sifting back to members of the grain fraternity here, including Frederick T. Dines, wheat variety expert for Tex-O-Kan Flour Mills (Burrus). And Mr. Dines proposes to aid wheat farmers in remedying the situation.

Even mills in the Panhandle region are importing high quality wheat to manufacture bread for local consumption.

It was confirmed by The Daily News that at least one large mill in the region has been importing wheat from Nebraska and Colorado to grind into flour. Purchased supplies of Panhandle wheat are being channeled out of the overseas export.

A high official of the flour milling concern asked that his firm not be mentioned by name. He said however, the standard of wheat in the Panhandle had slipped drastically during the last two or three years.

"Panhandle wheat is now at low ebb," he emphasized.

The mill official predicted that wheat buyers soon would be forced to follow the precedent set by cotton buyers—whereby purchase is made strictly on a grade classification.

To avert more serious repercussions and to attempt to stem the wave of criticism directed at Panhandle wheat, various mills, grain organizations and individuals are joining in a campaign to urge producers to plant only recognized good quality varieties during the coming year.

Mr. Dines lists the following varieties as chief offenders in producing poor milling quality wheat:

1. Chiefkan.
2. Red Chief.
3. Early Blackhull.
4. Superhard Blackhull.

On the recommended list for planting are:

1. Westar.
2. Comanche.
3. Tenmarq.
4. Wichita (early variety).
5. Triumph (early variety).

Also recommended where farmers have experienced good production results are:

1. Turkey Red.
2. Kanred.
3. Regular Blackhull.

The latter three varieties are not as highly recommended for milling qualities, although they are acceptable.

Pre-harvest surveys made by Mr. Dines over the entire Panhandle wheat belt showed 21 per cent of the total acreage north of Amarillo was planted in Chiefkan and Red Chief, both high on the blacklisted varieties. On the plains south of Amarillo, the acreage in poor varieties was 18 per cent of the total.

"The overall figure of poor quality varieties is so high that millers throughout the country are either refusing to purchase our wheat or are discounting it in some manner," Mr. Dines declared.

"Texas Panhandle wheat has been in the past a good source of high protein, high quality wheat with a good market demand," Mr. Dines pointed out. "This year, in spite of a shortage of strictly high protein wheat, Panhandle wheat has not enjoyed a favorable market in comparison to good quality producing areas."

Not only the Panhandle, but western Oklahoma and southwestern Kansas is in the same classification, the Tex-O-Kan expert emphasized.

"The whole trouble has started by producers getting good yields out of some of the poor type varieties," Dines pointed out. "But there is no sense in getting good yields with wheat—if it is to sell on the discounted market."

Dines explained "poor milling quality" is a misnomer commonly used by the grain trade. Actually what is meant is "poor baking quality."

"Some wheat produces flour with high baking qualities," he explained. "Flour from other varieties may be of poor quality. It bakes unevenly and produces lumpy, hard, unattractive and unsalable loaves."

Joe Coffee, president of the Panhandle Feed & Grain Dealers Association, viewed the future with alarm—if current poor type varieties are not eradicated.

"Now we have the vast export market to absorb wheat which the millers prefer not to use," the grain dealers president said. "But someday this market is going to disappear.

"The Panhandle then will have to compete with good quality producing areas for sale of its wheat," he added. "We may have a tough time of it."

Mr. Coffee said many reports are reaching him of Panhandle wheat being discounted by mill buyers. The discounts are averaging perhaps 5 cents a bushel.

"Some producers here think they are not being penalized for the kind of wheat they produce," Mr. Coffee said. "But this is not true."

The grain dealers recently held a called meeting of directors and officers to consider the problem. Mr. Dines was invited to speak at the meeting.

After hearing his opinions on the sitnation, the grain officials voted to join a widespread educational and promotional campaign—urging farmers to change to recognized good quality varieties.

"We used to hush-hush this thing," Mr. Coffee explained. "We were afraid the area would get a black-eye in national milling circles.

"We don't have to be quiet anymore. We've already established our reputation."

He pointed out Nebraska, now one of the best quality regions, once had the same problem facing the Panhandle. Through a concentrated program of variety education, the state effected a complete change-over in a mater of a few years.

Weast-Smith Rites Read In Home Service

In a double-ring ceremony at noon, Saturday, August 16, Ruby Gene Weast of Canyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Weast of Silverton, became the bride of William Porter Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Smith of Tampa, Fla.

Earl Cantwell, Church of Christ minister, read the service in the home of the bride's parents. Introducing the ceremony, Miss Thelma Mercer, accompanied by Miss June Wimberly of Canyon, sang "I'll Get By" by Ahlert and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" by Herbert. Miss Carolyn Wimberly of Canyon played a violin interpretation of Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Liebesstraum" by Listz. The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Nuptial vows were exchanged in front of a picture window flanked by candelabra bearing lighted white tapers, ferns and arrangments of carnations. Baskets of pink gladioli graced the sides of the improvised altar. Don Weast, brother of the bride, lighted the candles.

Attending her twin sister as matron-of-honor, Mrs. Kenneth Lee Jones of Slaton was attired in a pale blue organdy gown, fashioned with cap sleeves, peplum and full skirt. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

Clovis Hill was best man.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was gowned in imported Czechoslavokian organdy, designed with a tulle yoke, long fitted sleeves and a peplum which extended into a train over a bouffant skirt. Her finger-tip veil was of bridal illusion and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid surrounded by orange blossoms and showered with white satin ribbons. For something old, she wore a friendship bracelet belonging to her mother and for something borrowed, a linen handkerchief belonging to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Don Weast.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party was honored at a reception. Fern, candelabra bearing lighted tapers and a tiered wedding cake appointed the serving table. Miss Edwina Tooley of Canyon served the cake, Miss Mary Jo Watkins of Wichita Falls presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Dock Wallace, sister of the bride, secured names for the guest register.

The couple is to be at home in Gainesville, Fla., aftr a wedding trip to El Paso and Mexico. For traveling, the bride chose a light gray two-piece gaberdine dress with white accessories.

Mrs. Smith was graduated from West Texas State College, where she was a member of Gamma Phi Sorority, Alpha Psi Omega, national speech fraternity, and Alpha Chi, national honor society. She has been a commercial teacher at Hereford during the past year and worked this summer at the Texas Employment Commission in Amarillo.

SHORT SHORT STORY

Majolica Vase

By
L. T. McFARLAND

HARRY LANG had come prepared to spend fifty dollars for the vase. He sat nervously watching the auctioneer, the people, and the door and prayed that Marjory Higgins (that horrid spinster who seldom missed an auction, and always outbid him for his treasures) had broken a leg or something so she couldn't appear this time when the Majolica vase was to be put up on the block.

He strained his neck for the hundredth time toward the entrance. He wondered if her knowledge of antiques covered old pottery. Maybe not. Maybe his auction-sparring enemy didn't know a Majolica vase from a beer mug. Yet the very thought of those snapping eyes and that crisp sanguine voice sent his blood pressure soaring.

3-Minute Fiction

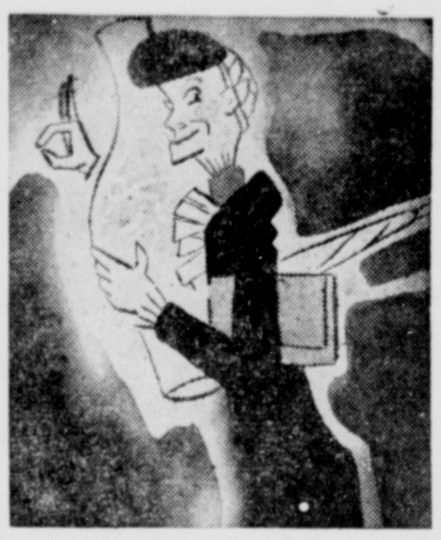
"What am I bid for this Majolica vase? A rare antique! Rarest thing in this room!" the auctioneer's well-oiled voice boomed forth while his free hand gestured out over wash tubs, kraut shovels, and the toil-worn carpet sweepers.

There it was! Harry looked about cautiously and held his breath for the sheer beauty of it.

"Who will start the bid?" the auctioneer coaxed.

"Five dollars." Harry called out. The girl was nowhere in sight.

"Thank you, sir, five dollars. Who will make it ten?" Thus the bidding proceeded until thirty was reached.



She pictured her proud exit with the vase safely tucked away.

THE crowd was swaying restlessly. Interest was on the wane. Harry took a plunge. "Forty," he finally said. Now the vase was practically in his lap, but the auctioneer held on. "Forty—forty—is all I am offered—who'll make it fifty—?"

"Fifty," called a clear voice near the door.

Suffering cats! It was her voice. The crowd turned en masse to see Marjory Higgins make her way up the aisle to a spot almost directly in front of Harry. She stood there, confidently, already picturing her proud exit with the vase in her possession.

Harry ground his teeth and muttered, "Sixty."

"Seventy-five," the crisp voice came back at once as Miss Higgins tossed a swift challenge back in Harry's direction.

"Eighty." Harry took the challenge, and this time Marjory flushed and seemed embarrassed.

"Eighty," teased the cryer. "'Eighty I am offered. Make it eighty-five, Miss?"

The girl nodded. "Eighty-five."

Harry was really seeing red.

"Eighty-five it is. Now make it ninety, Mister, make it ninety. Don't let the lady outbid you."

Harry sensed that the crowd to a man was on the lady's side and were inwardly rooting for her, enjoying her sportsmanship—so he raised up and shouted, "Ninety."

Now he had it. The auctioneer scolded and pleaded and begged but Marjory was immovable. She must be pouting. She heard the "Going—going—g-"

THEN it happened. Marjory Higgins whirled about and faced Harry Lang. She was trembling. "You cheap skate!" she shouted. "You penny pincher! It's not the money, but the principle of the thing that burns me up. All this embarrassment over a measly nickel or two. Ninety cents—well you don't get it for ninety. I bid one dollar. So there! And now that the vase is mine, I'd like nothing better than the privilege of breaking it over your head."

She stepped up to the stand and snatching the vase from the for-once speechless auctioneer, threw it with all her strength at Harry Lang's dome. Lucky for Harry he had made his record in football catching forward passes. A moment later it lay neatly tucked away under his arm.

"Touchdown," someone shouted and the crowd surged forward pushing Harry Lang until he was face to face with his assailant.

"Thanks, Madam. Thanks very much for the vase—the clerk will be along in a minute to collect your bid," he managed as the crowd pressed up. And in the riot that followed, Harry edged his way outside.

Small Shellfish Utilized In Experiments on Hemp

At the department of agriculture's plant industry station men who study hemp, a plant used for its fiber, find it desirable to make "biological assays" as well as tests of the fiber, as this plant contains in its juice a narcotic they would rather reduce than increase or leave as it is. They make the tests, the "biological assays," by means of extremely small shellfish (crustaceans) called daphnias, which the casual observer, if he had a good eye, might liken to miniature shrimps. In this small size, these test animals come fully equipped with alimentary canal, heart, egg sac, liver, eyes, shell gland, and other part too numerous to mention. The fiber scientists working on hemp improvement say the big little daphnias have many advantages for the testing work; many can be used in a small space; and they live almost a third as long as a mouse—that is they live two months. Other points are: They can be reared in tanks at room temperature; their culture medium is ordinary water that is just slightly alkaline; they feed on bacteria; and after the first brood, they bear every two or three days all the life span, and an individual may have as many as 400 little daphnias. If there is ample food and the temperature is kept just right (never above 80 degrees F. but may be quite cold), the females will produce offspring without need of fertilization of the eggs—that is parthenogenesis—a not uncommon shortcut among the cold crustaceaus and insensible insects. And that is just what the experimenters want in order to note the effects of small differences in the juices of the hemp plants they are breeding.

Rug Weavers of Orient Use Primitive Methods

For centuries weavers of rugs in the orient washed their wool by primitive methods to remove its natural protective oil film to permit the dyes to penetrate the fibers and also bring out the luster and sheen in the wool. The success of these primitive methods for the processing of wool for oriental rugs depended wholly upon the skill and intuitive knowledge of individual operators. Lacking a knowledge of chemistry, the processes were developed entirely by rule of thumb experience. Sometimes the treatment was too harsh, causing injury to the wool fibers and excessive fading or running of the dyes. But now modern science has come to the aid of an art centuries old. Extensive research has been carried out on the washing and lusterizing of wool. Most importers of oriental rugs in the United States give their rugs the final washing in this country under careful scientific control. About 85 per cent of the oriental rugs sold in America are washed in this country, as most American homemakers prefer a silky, high sheen finish. However, about one out of seven buyers choose the unwashed type of rug with its subdued coloring. Only rugs with special fast dyes are suitable for washing.

Peru Is Studied

Some strange event happened in ancient Peru between 2,500 and 3,000 years ago. An unidentified people living in Viru valley, who had been limited to the most primitive type of raising small amounts of food and who didn't know how or were unable to make pottery, suddenly expanded their agriculture and arts, including pottery making and the building of pyramids, although there was no genetical change in the people. Later came invasions leading finally to the Incas. Dr. George R. Willey of Smithsonian institution reports that 300 city and village sites were located in the valley by scientists of the Institute of Andean Research as a result of airplane surveys made by the Peruvian army air force.

Revarnishing Floors

Before revarnishing floors, remove the old, worn finish with paint remover and by careful scraping, so as not to mar the surface of the wood. If the old finish is shellac, it may be removed by softening it with denatured alcohol, followed by the use of steel wool, but in every case, care should be used to see that any residue which is left after use of the removing solvents be eliminated before applying a new coat of finish. If the floor is marred or stained, it will be worthwhile to have it sanded with a floor sanding machine. Finally, the floor should be well wiped with a clean dry cloth to get rid of any dust particles. It then may be refinished by application of two thin coats of high grade floor varnish or shellac.

Turpentine Stops Foxes

To help farmers "outfox" the fox by keeping him out of the chicken yard, Dayton Parsons, vermin control technician of the Ohio division of conservation, advises that a two-foot path sprayed with a mixture of used motor oil and turpentine will stop Reynard with almost the same effectiveness as a brick wall. The proper proportions are one quart of turpentine to each gallon of used oil. "If every farmer would keep the weeds cut around his chicken yard and encircle the area with a swath of oil and turpentine mixture, the fox," Parsons said, "would soon scratch chicken from his menu."

A slowdown in shipbuilding at British yards is resulting from the shortage of steel. Largely because of the lack of material, Great Britain turned out less than half the ships completed in the world during the three month period ending June 30, despite the fact that yards in the United Kingdom had more ships on the ways than all other countries combined. More than two million tons of shipping are under construction in Great Britain at present, the highest total in 25 years.

Drive Launched On Alcoholism

Scientists Open Campaign For $200,000 to Conduct Research Work.

NEW YORK.—Of 60 million persons in this country who drink alcoholic beverages, three million drink to excess and about 750,000 are "problem drinkers," the Research Council of Problems of Alcohol, an affiliate of American Association for the Advancement of Science, announced.

"Many of them are sick people, unable to control their appetite for alcohol," according to an introductory statement to a booklet issued by the council. "They are sick physically, and are frequently burdens to themselves, to their families and to society."

The council has instituted a nationwide campaign to raise $200,000 a year initially and establish a series of research diagnostic treatment centers in leading medical schools and their affiliated hospitals.

Health Problem No. 4.

Describing uncontrolled drinking as public health problem No. 4, the council's statement adds that in terms of numbers of persons affected, and its impact upon the health and social structure, it is a more serious problem than tuberculosis.

"There is growing recognition throughout the country," the statement continues, "based on medical evidence as well as on the desire for a strong healthy society that these problem drinkers should be treated as sufferers from a disease rather than as willful criminals—that they should be cared for in hospitals rather than punished in jails—and that their rehabilitation depends not upon exhortation to reform, but upon sound medical knowledge."

Reporting that some progress has been made in medicine and psychology toward treatment, the council asserts that much more remained to be done, that prevention was still an unsolved problem.

In view of the growing public acceptance on the medical nature of this problem, the council is critical of current legislation and medical programs.

Report Progress.

"Many of these programs are inadequate," it said. "The existence of an effective national organization to coordinate these various efforts and to acquire and disseminate the knowledge necessary to intelligent medical and social programs is mandatory."

Saying it seeks to fulfill that need, the group reports progress since its organization 10 years ago, Surgeon Gen. Thomas Parran of the United States Public Health service is quoted as having said the council, "made up as it is of distinguished scientists, promises to supply a long-felt need."

Dope Runners Use Planes To Bring in Narcotics

MEXICO CITY. — Half a dozen big time gangs, operating small, fast planes from secret airfields, will smuggle an estimated 66 million dollars worth of narcotics into the United States from Mexico this year, official quarters said.

Against such high speed smuggling operations, the United States and Mexico have only "horse and buggy" equipment and inadequate forces.

Ignacio Mancilla Vega, assistant chief of the judicial police here, said that 90 per cent of all opium and opium products entering the United States comes from Mexico. Prior to World War II, when oriental production centers were cut off from the United States, 90 per cent of such products came from outside the western hemisphere.

Mancilla said that a recent aerial survey indicated that at least 10,000 fields in northwestern Mexico were producing poppies, from which opium and heroin are made. He estimated the fields covered an area of 12,350 acres and would produce 44,000 pounds of gum opium, which wholesales in the United States at $1,500 a pound.

Drinking of Liquor Drops 30 Per Cent, Report Says

WASHINGTON. — The Distilled Spirits institute reported that Americans drank 30 per cent less whisky, gin, rum and brandy during the first four months of this year than they did in the same months of 1946.

The institute attributed the drop principally to "consumer resistance to prices which have not been substantially reduced since the war."

Consumption for the January-April period this year totaled 53,968,176 gallons of whisky and other distilled spirits as compared to 77,325,122 in corresponding months last year, the institute said.

Arrested for Dousing Children With Hot Water

NEW YORK.—Joseph M. Oates, 34, was arrested after police said he threw hot water on a group of children playing in the street.

Police quoted Oates as saying the noise made by the children annoyed him. One of the children, an 11-year-old girl, was treated for first-degree burns.

Almost without exception, they are seeking a short cut, a magic formula whereby one can get ahead in writing. Their faces fall when they are told that the only recipe is hard work, which is the recipe in just about any other field.

Hard work plus patience. For example, "Cub Reporter" is based on experiences and observations of this chronicler while breaking into the newspaper game back in 1916, and the two years which followed.

The idea of writing the book came about 1927. My mother had written a letter from Memphis, Tenn., and enclosed clippings telling of the death of C. P. J. Mooney, editor of the Commercial Appeal.

After the work of getting out the Eastland Daily Oil Belt News was done, I sat at my desk, slowly read the clippings and then mused as twilight descended. The determination came to write a book about Mr. Mooney, my first editor, and the glorious crew of reporters of "the old C. A."

Years went by. Slowly, subconsciously, the project took form. Frequently, I thought of the undertaking but it had not matured. This, like the aging of certain beverages in the wood, is a process that can not be hastened. There is no substitute for time, its sifting, its mellowing, its hallowing.

One day, a pen was dipped into ink and the writing began. The slower method of pen-and-ink gave a thought, a scene, an individual the full chance to unfold; it is the details which make a man or an event come to life on paper.

Nearly 50,000 words in ink—then revision, then typing it off on the machine, with changes of words, adding of touches as the task went along—and task it was, slow and hard.

And so "Cub Reporter" was written—30 years after the happenings had taken place, 20 years after the idea of writing the book was born.

The whole project was done without a thought of whether the book would sell a single copy. It was something I had to do—something I wanted to do, a tribute to the memory of a great man, a salute to the forever perished days of glorious youth.

DE SOTO APPROVED SERVICE PLYMOUTH

Russia to Mobilize Young Men for Work

May Be Called On to Toil in Mines and Factories.

MOSCOW.—That large groups of 18- and 19-year-old youths previously subject to military service might be called to dig coal and for training and other service in the industrial machine was announced in an edict by the Soviet Union.

The step was regarded as another move emphasizing the Soviet Union's need for trained personnel in industry and lessening the emphasis on military duty. In its fifth demobilization order in two years the Soviet Union last February ordered the release of several thousand "older" men from the armed services for jobs in factories and agriculture.

The decree affecting youth was passed on by the presidium of the Supreme Soviet. It gives the cabinet authority to mobilize annually for industry these groups of youths:

Boys, 14 to 17 inclusive, and girls, 15 to 16 inclusive, for training in craft and railway schools.

Boys and girls, 16 to 18 inclusive, for training in factory schools.

Boys of 19 for underground work in the coal industry, steel welding, mining and other professions of the metallurgical and oil industries.

This effected a change in a decree passed on October 2, 1940, for calling state labor reserves. Previously boys of 14 and 15 and girls of 15 and 16 were called to craft and railway schools and boys or 16 and 17 and girls of 16 to 18 to factory schools.

Thus youths of 18 and 19, previously unaffected by call-ups for industrial training and service because they were eligible for army training, now go into civilian groupings. No figures were given but they represent a sizable proportion of Russia's 193 million persons.

'Dead' Boy Lives Again; Firemen Restore Breath

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — A three-year-old boy was pronounced dead by doctors. Next day he was chattering happily in his mother's arms.

Gerald Green swallowed a piece of chalk. The chalk cut off his breath.

He was taken to General hospital. On the way, his pulse and breathing stopped. Ambulance doctors pronounced him dead.

But N. W. Albright and Neil Wallace of the fire department rescue squad put the boy under an oxygen tent and applied artificial respiration. After one and one half hours he began to breathe again.

Values of New Building Contracts Ahead of 1946

NEW YORK. — Construction contracts let in the first half of 1947 increased to $2,673,865,000 from $2,632,186,000 in the corresponding half of the last year, but physical volume this year was about 11 per cent below 1946, the Engineering News-Record said.

"If the construction industry is to reach the predicted total expenditure of 6.5 billion dollars for the new heavy construction by the end of this year," the publication pointed out, "it will be necessary to record an average of at least 146 million dollars worth of contracts let each week for the remaining half of the year. The current trend—which saw a high average week to date through June set at 103 million dollars, as compared with 101 million dollars average through June, 1946—gives no great promise of reaching the required figure.

The record week in the first half of 1947, the magazine said, was June 12, with 158 million dollars which was below the 182 million dollar record set last year in the week of June 6.

Even though 1947 is dropping below 1946, it was pointed out, the current year will not be a bad one for the industry, since last year's construction total was the third best in history, including the war years.

Ordnance Works Property Leased to Newsprint Firm

WASHINGTON. — Rep. Brown (Rep., O.), chairman of the house newsprint investigation committee, announced that the war department had signed a lease for use of part of the Alabama ordnance works property in Talladega County, Ala., for newsprint production. The lease is to Coosa River Newsprint company.

Brown said the company expected to start production in from 12 to 18 months, with an annual output of approximately 100,000 tons of newsprint. The lease is for 40 years.

Burglars Go to a Heap of Trouble and Get Nothing

PHILADELPHIA. — Burglars climbed up a fire escape to the roof, broke through a skylight and smashed down three doors to reach the Art Novelty company's lamp factory.

They used a couple of screw drivers, a hammer and six hacksaw blades in a futile effort to open the safe.

Finally they gave it up as a bad job and departed.

The safe didn't contain a cent.

Norway's exports in May increased $8,000,000 over April's figures to a total of $34,200,000. Imports decreased $1,000,000 to $54,000,000. Larger shipments of fresh and canned fish, fish oils, fats, fertilizers, ore and metals accounted for the rise in exports. The drop in imports are due to smaller purchases of textiles, machinery, transport vehilces and ore metals.

The situation in Korea is getting steadily worse. There is a strong possibility that U. S. officials, their patience exhausted by dickering with both the Koreans and the Russians, may propose that the whole problem be turned over to the foreign ministers of the five major powers. If that doesn't bring a solution, the United Nations probably will be given a chance to decide Korea's future before the U. S. feels compelled to make a separate settlement for the American occupation zone.

Cost of living on Canadian farms has gone up 10 per cent in the last 12 months. The cost index rose four points in April alone. At the present level, the cost of living for Canadian farmers is 36 per cent higher than during the years from 1936 to 1939. Commodities and services used by farmers rose 7.6 points between January and April of this year. The figure now is almost 12 points higher than it was in August 1945, and 10 points higher than a year ago.

Diphtheria Cases Too Numerous in State of Texas

Education of the public to the value of diphtheria immunization has resulted in lowering the incidence of this dread disease, but Texas still had over 1500 cases of this preventable disease last year according to records in the Texas State Department of Health.

"It is a generally accepted fact among public health authorities," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said, "that any community may control its death rate from diphtheria. Immunization has been proved a safe and effective preventive measure. Wherever immunizing treatment has been extensively used, diphtheria has steadily decreased.

"The most forceful weapon in the control of diphtheria is prevention through immunization, rather than cure of the disease after it has developed. Children can be protected against diphtheria by the use of what is known as toxoid. Young children are particularly susceptible to the disease. Accordingly, as soon as a baby is six months old, to the family physician and have to the family phhysician and have use of toxoid. Older children in the family who have not had the protective treatment, should be immunized also, and this should be attended to now before the school season begins. This immunizing agent is absolutely safe to administer; there is only a slight local reaction, and practically no constitutional or troublesome after effects. It confers a life time immunity in the majority of cases. To be certain that immunization is complete, however, the child should be taken back to the physician six months after the toxoid was administered, and given the Schick Test.

"It is within the power of the parents of this State, cooperating with their physicians and public health departments, to eliminate diphtheria from Texas."

Four thousand displaced Europeans will be given homes in Australia this year. The transfer of war refugees was agreed to during negotiations between the Australian Government and the International Refugee Organization. Under the agreement, Australia will select persons to be admitted, and the IRO will arrange their transportation. After living in Australia for three months, the immigrants will be permitted to nominate relatives for admission. Starting next year, Australia plans to admit 12,000 displaced persons annually.

YOUR STATE TAXES DOUBLED

The State Tax Rate This Year Is 72c On $100 Valuation

Last Year the Rate Was 37c

Who Said, "No New Taxes"?

VOTE! VOTE! VOTE!

Saturday, August 23rd

AGAINST

An Additional 5c Tax

On Saturday, August 23, an amendment to the constitution of the State of Texas will be voted on to allocate 5c of the authorized 7c Confederate pension tax to finance a building program for State owned colleges other than the University of Texas and Texas A. & M.

An Additional Tax

"They" say this is not a new tax, but you have not been paying it for many years. It certainly will be an additional tax you have not been paying. If voted by the people of Texas on August 23, it will be added to your 72c State tax, making a total of 77c on the $100 valuation.

Small Taxpayers Pay

The veteran, the farmer, the small home owner, the laborer, the small business man, everybody will have to pay this 5c tax in addition to the 72c State tax, if this amendment carries. This State tax is in addition to local taxes—County taxes—School taxes—City taxes—and perhaps others.

Will Not Provide Buildings

If passed, this 5c additional tax will not provide adequate and sufficient buildings at today's cost of construction. In the next 10 years West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon MIGHT get $487,200. The College of Mines at El Paso MIGHT get $423,000. Sul Ross at Alpine MIGHT get $189,000. Texas Technological College at Lubbock MIGHT get $1,500,000 in these 10 years.

An Unnecessary Tax

This is an unnecessary tax. By a division of the so-called Permanent University Fund more buildings can be built at all the State owned colleges than this tax will provide. They also can be built much sooner. And the State University and Texas A. & M. still can get more buildings than they can use.

42 Counties Exempt

42 of the State's richest counties pay no ad valorem taxes for State purposes. None of these counties are in West Texas.

W H Y?

Should you pay another unnecessary 5c tax when 42 of the State's 254 counties will not be paying to help our State colleges.

Help Colleges—Vote Against

You will actually be helping all 14 of our States colleges if you vote against this amendment. All these colleges can and will get more money by regular appropriations if this amendment is defeated than they could get by the passage of this 5c tax amendment. Your vote against the amendment will help instead of hurt these 14 State colleges.

DON'T BE LED ASTRAY

Do not be led astray by this proposed amendment which levies a 5c tax on your property for 30 years and saddles a $45,000,000 debt on you and all other taxpayers. If passed, this amendment will open the flood gates of the State treasury to dozens of new colleges and you again will pay the bill.

Go Vote Saturday, August 23rd
